A SAD CASE.

As sad a case as ever happened in our midst occurred last week. Two brothers found almost linked together in deaths fatal grip. Last Thursday H. Bass reported to the police, and said he wished them to go to the hut occupied by the Smith brothers on Sucker Island, as he had been there and found the door and windows securely fastened, and on looking through the window it appeared to him as if both men were lying dead. Dr. McInnis, coronor, was sent for and with the police found the house, and that the report of Mr. Bass was only too true. An entrance was forced, the door being fastened with a bolt, and the windows were securely nailed. The doctor on entering found the two men lying in bed side by side, in their last sleep. On investigation the coroner considered it unnecessary to hold an inquest, his verdict was, that death resulted from disease. The following notes show that the deceased had been suffering for some time, and their touching appeals for help indicate, they tried hard to get as far as the trail. The notes left show that both of the men were in a pitiable condition as the first three are signed by D. Smith and the last dated 4th March, by R. J. Smith. Written on the door in pencil was "I'll try and make the trail if I." The first note not dated, but the coroners opinion is that it was written about the 15th February. "Any person will be doing a kindness by driving a sick man up to the Fort will be paid whatever it is worth, by following this trail down it will lead you to the place. It's not over a mile, house at the head of the Island," signed D. Smith. Another note not dated says: "Anyone who will drive a sick man up to the Fort will be paid whatever it is worth, by following the trail to the river it will lead you to the place, it's not a mile. You can drive down about half way," signed D. Smith. The next note dated February 28th, 1895, and headed. Notice. "Flour, money or gold will be paid to anyone who will drive a sick man up to the Fort, follow this trail down the river, it will lead you to the house at the head of the island, it is not quite a mile, you can drive down over half way," signed D. Smith. Another note was found fastened to a board in the house behind the door, dated March 4th, 1895. "Would any person passing come down right away for God's sake and give us help for our legs are badly swollen from eating rabbits and we can hardly leave bed. Will pay money, gold or flour to anyone who will lend us assistance, do not let anything stop you from coming down as we will pay all expenses. By following this trail right down to the river it will lead you to the house at the head of the Island," signed R. J. Smith.

In the house there was found a good supply of everything. The deceased men came here last summer from Calgary. They built the house they were found in last August and had been washing gold in the fall and hunting during the winter. A telegram received from the police asks that the bodies be sent to Calgary as their father will be there shortly. The bodies were brought in last night by the police and given in charge of Mr. Lockhart who will forward them to Calgary by to-morrow's train.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, MARCH 18th, 1895.

ELECTION ADDRESS.

To the electors of Alberta.

GENTLEMEN.—As the nominee of the convention of Alberta Liberals which was held recently at Calgary, and having been assured of a strong support by the patrons of industry in Northern Alberta, as well as at the solicitation of a large number of independent conservatives in this part of the country, I have the honor to offer myself as a candidate for the representation of Alberta in the Commons at the approaching general election. The stand which I take with the full knowledge and consent of those who have tendered me their support is that of an independent as to party, but not as to principle. On the main question at present at issue between the liberal and conservative parties, I understand that the organizations and individuals tendering me their support have done so with the wish and expectation that I would and will so far as lies in my power support the policy of a tariff for revenue as against the policy of a tariff for protection, which is the declared policy of the present government; on the ground that the protective policy discriminates unjustly against the western producer in favor of the eastern manufacturer.

Although holding strongly with the liberal party and also the patron organization on this point, I have not bound myself to either of these because I believe that the first duty of the single representative of so great a country holding such great possibilities as this district of Alberta should be to use his every energy for the further development of this country and the realization of these possibilities; as he can not if he is to be subject to restraint by the exigencies of any party. This constituency has had party representation during the past eight years,—has been represented by a member of the party in power then and now. If the results have been satisfactory, that principle should be continued. If not it should be changed. It is because I believe that this system of party representation has been gravely injurious to this district that I have consented to make the personal sacrifice involved in my candidature, and because, so far as I knew, no other person was likely to come forward to advocate these or like views.

In a region so vast and varied as Alberta it would be impossible for any man at any time to define all the points of policy that would affect each locality, therefore I do not attempt to do so here. I hope from time to time, however, in the course of the contest, to have the opportunity to discuss fully with the electors at most of the principal centres of population, all matters that may come up for discussion, in whatever shape they may appear. That such a vast region, having such a large population and such important interests should be accorded only one representative is as plain a case of injustice as is required to show the glaring failure of party representation to secure the people in even their simplest rights. The matter of railway extension and railway rates particularly in the north and the question of irrigation in the south seem to be the great questions affecting the interests of the district with which parliament will from time to time have to deal. I need not point out that while these are vital questions to Alberta, they are not party questions at all, and it is all the more necessary that your representative should be in a position to advocate your interests in regard to them in parliament without party hindrance even if he has to do it without party support.

Speaking generally I may say that I will support a policy of development for Alberta, and while I will not bind myself to ask for favors for any section or interest I will bind myself to do all in my power to see that each section and every interest receives fair and equal treatment.

In conclusion I will say that although I have no personal interest to serve or ambition to gratify by entering upon this contest, yet having entered upon it in good faith I shall do all I can to win, and ask for the active assistance of every man who believes that the success of the principles which I have been selected to advocate would be in the interest of this constituency and of the country.

Respectfully Yours,

FRANK OLIVER.

EDMONTON, March 4th, 1895.

SETTLERS STOPPED.

An article appears in the Commercial headed, "The quarantine keeps out settlers." This matter of the quarantine regulations is a most vital one in connection with immigration from the United States. Under the present regulations there is a quarantine of ninety days against live stock brought in from the United States by incoming settlers. These regulations are undoubtedly keeping out hundreds and thousands of good settlers who would otherwise move here from the Western States and bring their stock and effects along with them. At present a large movement of people is going on from the drought stricken region of Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, South Dakota and other parts of the Western States. The farmers who are leaving these districts find it almost impossible to dispose of their stock, owing to the very low prices which prevail there. Many of them would like to come to Canada and bring their live stock along with them, but the ninety days quarantine at the boundary practically paralyzes the movement in this direction. Now as the majority of the farmers from the Western States are coming into Northern Alberta these regulations are affecting us more than elsewhere, and considering that Canadian cattle do not enjoy any advantage in British markets over cattle from the United States, the regulations, which are keeping out many valuable settlers, might well be very materially modified in the interests of immigration from the Western States.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC.

The passing of the usual half yearly dividend of the Canadian Pacific railway company on the ordinary stock has been made the subject of much comment in financial and political circles the whole week and has lead many to inquire into the company's financial methods and the history of the contract, construction, completion and further development of the vast system since the original syndicate was awarded the contract for building the transcontinental railway across British North America. From official documents at Ottawa and the company's statements it appears that the company was chartered February 17, 1881, and the main line opened throughout on May 26, 1887. The several branches and leased lines were built or acquired at different periods. The road was created, fostered and lavishly endowed by the Dominion government. The public credit of the Dominion was at the back of the concern for tens of millions of dollars to carry the railway to completion. The contract made with the government was for the construction and operation of a through line of railway from Callander, on the east side of Lake Nipissing to the Pacific coast. The government also agreed that over $30,000,000 should be expended by the government in the building and completing of certain sections of the railway, some of them difficult and costly. In fact the Canadian government agreed to give and did give in the form of subsidies payable as the work prospered.

- (1) Thirty million dollars' worth of completed railway sections.
- (2) Twenty-five million dollars in cash.
- (3) Twenty-five million acres of public lands on the prairies of the Northwest.
- (4) The privilege of importing rails and other supplies into Canada free of duty.

(5) A monopoly of the railway traffic of the Northwest—the government of Canada binding itself not to permit the construction of any railway southward from the Canadian Pacific to the United States boundary line. The value of those last mentioned privileges was very great. The government had to buy out the monopoly privilege from the company in 1888 to prevent the Manitobans from taking arms to secure its abolition.

The original capital of the company was $5,000,000 issued at par, which was increased $25,000,000 on May 10th, 1882, the $20,000,000 new stock being sold to the founders at 25 cents on the dollar. The issue of new stock brought into the company's treasury $5,000,000 and at this time only small headway had been made on the main line and earnings were small yet, as a pretty well informed financier points out, so great were its resources owing to its having the credit of Canada at command, that it could afford to pay 5 per cent. dividends out of capital upon stock which it had given away at 35 cents on the dollar.

POLITICAL NOTES.

It is reported that Peter White and J. J. Curran will be sworn into the privy council. Nicholas Flood Davin has received the nomination of the liberal conservatives of Western Assinaboia.

The Battleford Herald announces, that the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier will accept the nomination as opposition candidate in Saskatchewan provided no local man enters the field.

It appears as if the conservatives will soon be snowed under if present indications go for anything. It looks as if the liberals are carrying everything before them.—Prince Albert Times.

The impression is gaining ground, in the best informed political circles, that a short session of the house will be held before an appeal is made to the people. There are many indications of this being done.

The Macleod Gazette in an article, says: If the conservatives want to win in Alberta two things have to be done. Mr. Davis has got to be provided for, and T. Cochrane got out of the field. The situation may be summed up in a nutshell. Haultain vs. Oliver, victory; Cochrane and another vs. Oliver, sure defeat, and Cochrane vs. Oliver, a disastrous rout.

NOTICE

Application for Incorporation

Notice is hereby given that application will be made at the next session of the Northwest Assembly for an Ordinance incorporating the several parishes and missions of the Roman Catholic diocese of St. Albert.

Signed

VITAL J. GRANDIN, Bishop of St. Albert.

AN ADDRESS.

The following address is one presented to the Lieutenant Governor during his visit here. Its presentation not occurring at the time when other addresses were read, is the reason of its not appearing before.

It was with feeling of deep regret that we heard from Your Honor's lips the expression of regret on your part at the absence of a formal address of welcome from the St. Andrew's society of Edmonton.

We wish now in a measure to repair the oversight also to assure Your Honor that it was neither from want of loyalty to our beloved sovereign whose representative you are, from disrespect to yourself, or from doubt as to your claim on us personally by virtue of your parentage, for although only a few are Scotchmen, all are sons of Adam, but rather that the notice of your coming was so short that we found it inconvenient to undertake a concerted action on the part of the society, the more especially as several of its prominent members were actively engaged in other measures for showing appreciation by the district of the honor of your visit.

Allow us now to express the respect of our society to you officially and personally and to extend a welcome none the less cordial for the delay in presenting it.

We were pleased to learn that Your Honor is a member of the St. Andrew's brotherhood, and our lately acquired knowledge of your parentage, presents to us another reason why Scotland should be proud of her sons and grandsons.

Your Honor has expressed a desire to cultivate a feeling of accord and unanimity in the people of the Northwest and we assure you that in this you have the hearty support of our society as it has always been a strong plank in our platform and our efforts now and always are to hasten the day when "Man to man the war! o'er. Shall brothers be an a' that." We almost inferred that you were of opinion that the people here, of Edmonton, were given to dissent and strife. If such is the case we hasten to disabuse your mind of this impression if what you have already seen of us has not done so, indeed we think that it must be particularly gratifying to you as the representative of Her Majesty to find in this outlying portion of Her Empire, so many of different nationalities and creeds living together in peace and harmony under British laws, contending only in efforts to give expression to our loyalty to our sovereign and the British constitution, and making common cause in reclaiming the wilderness and laying the foundation of what we hope and confidently expect will be one of the fairest provinces of the British possessions.

This is one of the principal objects of our society in wishing to preserve our national individuality as an incentive to further efforts. We are convinced that if we wish the country to be a credit to us, we must be a credit to the country. We have the traditions of our ancestors, both at home and abroad, we have before all the brilliant example of our countrymen in Eastern Canada whose record we strive to maintain. We have come west not only to grow up with the country, but to assist in its growth. Our watchword is "progress," we mean to progress and will always be pleased to continue our progression hand in hand with other nationalities.

"Then let us pray that come it may,
As come it will for a' that,
That sense and worth o'er a' the earth,
May bear the gree and a' that.
For a' that and a' that,
Its coming yet for a' that,
That man to man the war! o'er,
Shall brothers be an a' that."

Signed on behalf of the Edmonton St. Andrew's society.

Geo. J. KISSAID,
President.
J. J. DUNLOP,
Secretary.
